Testimonials

I confirm that Akinyi successfully carried out the project “FSUL Design studio” which aimed at the transfer of practical and hands-on design skills to young local textile graduate designers in Kampala, Uganda. Ms. Odongo led the training program and provided mentorship to the graduates. In addition, she fulfilled the regular project reporting responsibilities towards Aid by Trade Foundation. We thank her for her engagement in the programme.

AID BY TRADE FOUNDATION

Akinyi Odongo embodies a true champion of the Cotton, Textile and Apparel value chain in Kenya. During the 3 years I served as the SME Advisor to the Cabinet Secretary at the Ministry of Industry, Trade & Cooperatives, she not only took initiative to engage Government with proposals on how best to support startups and SMEs on funding, market access and common manufacturing facilities, but also actively mobilized her colleagues in the Fashion Design industry to speak in a collective voice. She is a selfless leader who took the initiative to create a mentorship platform for upcoming fashion designers.

She founded the Kenya Fashion Council out of a need to establish a coordinated structure for Fashion Designers to engage with the Government and other private and non-governmental bodies. She was readily available to my office whenever I needed to consult with SMEs to co-create policies. I truly admire her passion and consistency in supporting other entrepreneurs and always professionally representing Kenya in international platforms through her creative designs.

Akinyi has supported the German-Kenyan pilot group of our Design Networking Hub with her lecture on “Kenya - People, Culture and the Creative Scene”. Especially for the German participants it was a great introduction to learn more about Kenya (e.g. the spirit of Umoja, “Silicon Savannah”). Thank you dear Akinyi!

Akinyi Odongo through her Fashion Agenda Africa (FAA) an initiative that is founded on a paradigm of creativity, innovation and sustainable impact in the farm to fashion value chain is in collaboration with Tafari Centre for the Arts to advance the understanding appreciation and adoption of the fashion design practice among those living in the rural areas and particularly the youth. Over the years that this collaboration has been running, Akinyi has been very instrumental in directing the programme with very visible impact on the target community. She has further directly supported our centre in the establishment and equipping of permanent fashion design spaces with the above goal in mind. This space has now become a regular space for use by our artists in residence, film makers, and the community around us in their fashion design, costume making etc initiatives. Part of the collaboration entails providing young fashion designers in Africa with opportunity to co-create with others from different cultures and traditions – Akinyi has been pursuing this vigorously leading to successful inter-cultural creative fashion residencies at our centre. She continues to support our centre with the goal of mainstreaming fashion design as a gainful economic activity and confidence building amongst the youth. Tafari Centre for the Arts is a multidisciplinary centre set in a secluded and inspiring rural location in rural Kenya.

Testimonials

I have known Akinyi for over 18 Years, Akinyi provided her professional guide and mentorship for our youth programme at NairoBits Trust an organization that amplifies the voice of the youth, promotes their creativity and provides a platform to showcase digital and social innovation that open up their employment opportunities, and making them community leaders. Akinyi also designed and supplied the organization with high quality beautifully designed graduation gowns being used to date. I have known Akinyi Odongo as a passionate, innovative, brave, and single minded professional, always brings out the best in her work. I have particularly observed Akinyi's consistency and watched her tremendous growth over the years.

I have had the honor to know Akinyi Odongo, O.G.W since 2014. She is a remarkable thought leader with unparalleled insight into her area of expertise. This insight is further coupled with a fiery passion to empower, equip and uplift African youth. She has achieved this through patient coaching, firm mentorship and generous exposure to her networks. Akinyi is a high flying super achiever in her own right, and has been a pioneer in numerous causes, most notably the formation and steering of the first ever Kenya Fashion Council, where she has diligently served and led for the past 6 years. As she also holds the hands of her young mentees at FAA in steady guidance, she is also a no nonsense teacher who has mastered the delicate balance of gently encouraging and firmly pushing the young people into their potential. I am proud to have been mentored by Ms. Odongo and owe a lot of my tenacity to her relentless commitment to my betterment. She comes highly recommended.

Akinyi has been known to our businesses in Kenya and Uganda for a number of years to date as we continue to collaborate in a number of projects. She was the head of a 14 months CmiA grant project at fine spinners Ltd in Kampala, Uganda. The objective of the project was to transfer practical and hands on design skills to locally trained textile graduates. This was to develop the designers further for designing for European market. The project served as a role model for other similar projects within the textile industry. With the use of local fabric to increase marketability of products from a fully vertically integrated textile mill starting from locally grown cotton, to spinning-of yarn, to knitting, dyeing, finishing and garment in. This was the first designer training and creating a full designing studio of this kind in Africa.

The studio has produced designers that have been finally integrated into the company for full time employment for continual output of trendy and fashionable designs. Akinyi saw through the project to its completion with excellence. All reports and were done in record time and the donors were constantly updated. Thank you for changing lives and giving hope to future great designers just like you.

Akinyi really helped me with growing my business. She made me change my mindset to start thinking of Styletech as a business and not just a hobby. She encouraged and urged me to put structures in place that have helped me better manage my business and finances. From making 0 to 2 sales a month I am now making an average of 15 sales per month pushing me closer to my monthly sales goals. This has also opened up a new market for me internationally as we have started getting new orders from overseas. Thank you so much to Akinyi for really going to the basics and showing me a more effective way of running a successful business.

Testimonials

I had Akinyi as a business coach. It was an eye opening and insightful experience. I was struggling with doing my financials and she simplified it for me and I was able to calculate my cost of production effectively and reaching my targets. She was very honest with her feedback in regard to my brand and now i am able to see results. Akinyi has been a wonderful coach for me, she is honest, very receptive to every question i asked, quite encouraging and very impactful. I am very grateful.

I worked with Akinyi at Kenya Fashion Council as an administrator. She was the Executive Board Chair, I must say she was an extremely professional leader who always stood for what is right. She made my work easier through her guidance. Her deeper understanding of the fashion industry and putting the needs of the industry ahead of her own.

Akinyi Odongo is a powerhouse! Her power and influence goes beyond fashion to leadership and development. She has infused her passion in fashion into not only promoting sustainable development but also to empowering women and girls to have secure livelihoods through fashion. She is trustworthy, creative, innovative and adds royalty to her style.

I discovered Akinyi when I needed a total wardrobe shift and she guided me gently. If you're looking for a designer and fashion guru with international influence, yet humble, and approachable, then Akinyi Odingo OGW is the woman for the job!

Akinyi as a leader is fierce & fearless. Akinyi as a designer is meticulous & detail oriented. I haven't seen more passion & gusto in a person like I have seen with Akinyi. She takes her work seriously and executes with the utmost precision and transparency.

As my mentor, she has taught me the importance of professionalism, especially finishing well, in any situation. A lesson I carry with me into my various projects.

The most admirable thing about Akinyi, is her resilience and capacity to withstand challenges. It is an honour for me to call Akinyi my mentor.
